Message from the Board Chairman, HACC Foundation Board of Directors

Dear Friends, Donors and Supporters,

If education is the heart of a community college, then philanthropy is its soul.

HACC benefits significantly from the generosity of you — our caring community. Since 1985, philanthropic support through the HACC Foundation has played a vital role in helping the College improve programs and services for our students and meet the changing needs of our communities. As a result of your generosity, HACC is now positioned as a leader in providing the highest in quality education and workforce training.

This report shares personal stories that are just a small testament to the many extraordinary donors whose giving spirit makes a difference in the lives of our College community every single day.

Contributions were made in many different ways. Many support students through scholarship awards, including The Jennifer Weaver Scholarship Award Fund, established by Jennifer Weaver, former vice president of HACC's Gettysburg Campus. Weaver passed away in July 2012, but her legacy of advocating for Latino and first-generation college students remains strong and vibrant through the creation of this personal scholarship fund.

The transformation of the Senator John J. Shumaker Public Safety Center continued with tremendous support from local government, foundation and corporate contributions. A particular highlight of the year included the delivery of a 79-foot aerial ladder truck, the center's first new piece of fire apparatus in its more than 20-year history.

Please enjoy these and many other stories on how philanthropy, no matter what the shape or size, brings opportunity, hope and success to the lives touched by HACC.

On behalf of the HACC Foundation Board of Directors, we thank all those in our communities — corporate and individual donors, public and private grantors, foundations, student organizations, alumni and employees — who have partnered with HACC to bring the very best to our students.

With deepest appreciation,

About the HACC Foundation

The HACC Foundation is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization that was established in 1985 to raise private and corporate revenues in support of HACC, Central Pennsylvania's Community College. As of June 30, 2012, the HACC Foundation endowment consisted of more than 280 funds and assets totaling almost $32 million. The HACC Foundation is one of the wealthiest community college foundations in the nation. In fiscal year 2011-12 alone, the HACC Foundation contributed almost $2.2 million to the College in scholarships, special programs and facilities and provided financial assistance to 1,067 students.

Projects benefiting from donations to the HACC Foundation include the following:

- Establishment of The Jennifer Weaver Scholarship Award Fund to assist Latino and first-generation college students and The Jonathan Ralph Stellar Memorial Award Fund to support male students who have overcome adversity (Gettysburg Campus)
- Renovation and expansion of the Senator John J. Shumaker Public Safety Center
- Establishment of the Brossman Library and Learning Center and purchase and updates to equipment for the nursing and cardiac sonography programs (Lancaster Campus)
- Upgrading of computer workstations and seating in the Pushnik Family Library and establishment of the Opportunity and Access Scholarship Fund, the Lebanon Faculty Scholarship Award and the Lebanon Staff S.U.C.C.E.S.S. Award (Lebanon Campus)
- Expansion of classroom and science lab projects supported by Governor George M. Leader's contributions to the York Campus Fund (York Campus)

Contributions to the HACC Foundation are accepted in the form of unrestricted gifts to augment endowed funds, contributions to existing or new scholarship programs or award funds, support for academic and workforce programs, sponsorship of special events and cultural programs and contributions made in honor or in memory of individuals. In addition, the Foundation holds annual events, including the Frank J. Dixon Tournament for Scholarships and various scholarship award ceremonies.

New President Takes the Reins at HACC in 2011-12

John J. "Ski" Sygielski, Ed.D., is leading the College toward an era of higher expectations and greater accountability.

John J. "Ski" Sygielski, Ed.D., was appointed the seventh president of HACC, Central Pennsylvania's Community College, in July 2011 after a national search by the HACC Board of Trustees.

At his inauguration in October 2011, Dr. Ski said his first task was "to look IN, so I can look OUT with a more accurate perspective." He added, "I continue to listen and learn and look forward to building that vision by walking beside each of you. The future of HACC is seeing possibilities. We cannot control circumstances, but we can control what we do with them."

He facilitated nearly 100 focus groups within his first six months to gauge community perceptions, to move the College forward as a highly regarded institution of higher education and "to exceed the expectations of not only our students but everyone associated with this dynamic teaching and learning enterprise."

Faced with a potential $11 million deficit and a mandate from the Board of Trustees for a balanced 2012-13 budget, Dr. Ski successfully charged his executive cabinet and an efficiency task force comprised of members from across the College to find strategic ways to increase revenues and reduce expenses while enhancing the value of a HACC education.

The transformation of HACC from good to great continues under Dr. Ski's leadership with a structural reorganization that centralizes the College's functions to better serve the five campuses.

The College's culture is evolving to meet the expectation for high-performing, student-focused employees who embrace Dr. Ski's philosophy of open, honest and transparent interactions with colleagues and stakeholders throughout HACC's 10-county footprint in central Pennsylvania.

Dr. Ski is a member of the American Association of Community Colleges' (AACC) 21st-Century Commission on the Future of Community Colleges and is the immediate past chair of the AACC's board of directors. He also serves on the board of the Council for Resource Development, the advisory board of the Higher Education Research & Development Institute and the Educational Testing Service's National Community College Advisory Committee.

Dr. Ski holds a gubernatorial appointment to the Pennsylvania Workforce Investment Board. Locally, he is a member of the Harrisburg Rotary and serves as a director on the boards of MANTEC, a nonprofit organization serving the manufacturing industry; the York County Community Foundation; and WITF, a public media organization.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Dr. Ski was president of Mt. Hood Community College, a multi-campus community college based in the Portland, Ore., area, and Lord Fairfax Community College, a multi-campus college in Virginia. In addition, he served in senior administrative positions within the Virginia Community College System and at the College of DuPage — Illinois' largest community college. He also has experience as a K-12 teacher and a corporate trainer for two Fortune 500 companies.

Dr. Ski holds a bachelor's degree, two master's degrees in business management and a doctorate in education leadership. He is the only member of his working-class family to graduate from college.

New Vice President of College Advancement at HACC and Executive Director of the HACC Foundation Joins Team

Linnie S. Carter, Ph.D., APR brings expertise, experience to leadership roles.

Linnie S. Carter, Ph.D., APR, was named vice president of college advancement at HACC, Central Pennsylvania's Community College, by the Board of Trustees in March 2012.

She was named executive director of the HACC Foundation in May 2012.

As a member of the College's leadership team, Carter works directly with HACC President John J. "Ski" Sygielski, Ed.D., and other members of his executive cabinet in strategic planning and budgeting of College resources. She oversees the HACC Foundation and advertising, alumni affairs, fundraising, grants, graphic design, marketing, public relations, publications, special events, videography and the HACC website.

"Dr. Carter brings more than 17 years of experience and a track record for success in institutional advancement," Sygielski said.

"Her leadership skills, unparalleled work ethic and passion for community colleges complement our core strengths and are a catalyst for meeting the challenges of educating the workforce of the 21st century," he added.

Carter said, "I am truly enjoying my time at HACC. During my initial visit to the HACC Harrisburg Campus — to attend Dr. Ski's inauguration in October 2011 — I was impressed by the beauty of the campus; the friendliness of the people I encountered; the festive environment; the positive energy; and the nontraditional, yet tasteful and classy, inauguration. It was quite clear — almost immediately — that HACC was a special place. Several months later, I have seen firsthand that we have an excellent leadership team, family-like work environment, student-centered culture, active student leaders, beautiful campuses, supportive board members and generous donors. I have worked at four community colleges, and HACC clearly leads in many of these areas."

Carter's previous appointments include vice president of institutional advancement at Halifax Community College in Weldon, N.C.; vice president of college advancement at Lord Fairfax Community College in Virginia (2005-09) and director of institutional advancement at John Tyler Community College, also in Virginia (2000-04). She served as executive director of the foundations at each of the institutions.

In addition, Carter was assistant professor of public relations at North Carolina A&T State University, Greensboro, N.C. (2010-11) and adjunct faculty member in the School of Mass Communications at Virginia Commonwealth University (VCU), Richmond (2000-01). She previously was public relations manager and community affairs coordinator of the Richmond (Va.) Metropolitan Authority (1998-00).

Carter earned a Ph.D. in community college leadership in 2009 from Old Dominion University, Norfolk, Va. She earned a master's degree in mass communications (media management) in 1998 and a bachelor's degree in mass communications (public relations) in 1992, both from VCU. She earned the prestigious Accredited in Public Relations (APR) designation in 2000 from the Public Relations Society of America (PRSA).

Her many professional and community memberships include the Association of Fundraising Professionals (AFP), Council for Resource Development, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority Inc. and PRSA.

She is a delegate to Vision 2020, Drexel University College of Medicine's Institute for Women's Health and Leadership. In addition, Carter is the recipient of numerous awards and honors and is involved in several college and community service organizations.

Distinguished Alumnus Reflects on Value of Travel Award

Roderick L. Lee, Ph.D.

In an increasingly interconnected world and global economy, today's educators are encouraging college students to get out of their comfort zones and study abroad. Thanks to the Simon and Eva Brenner Student Travel and Enrichment Award, Roderick L. Lee, Ph.D., studied psychology in London while a student at HACC in 1999. Lee received HACC's Distinguished Alumni Award in 2005.

"You have a different level of appreciation for a country's history and culture when you are exposed to it," Lee said. "In England, I visited many historic places like Stonehenge and Stratford-upon-Avon, Shakespeare's birthplace. You can read about these places in textbooks or talk about them in class, but when you travel there and experience it, the place becomes real. As a professor, I think it's important that students have the opportunity to study abroad. It expands their horizons, and they gain enriching cross-cultural experiences."

Lee cannot emphasize enough the importance of scholarships. In 1996, he returned to school at HACC after serving 10 years in the military. If not for the assistance he received under the GI Bill, college would not have been possible. Even with help, Lee worked full time and attended HACC full time to earn his associate degree in 1999. "HACC's faculty built up my confidence and helped me develop the skills I needed to be successful in school," Lee said. While attending HACC, he took full advantage of its flexible schedules and learning help, including the math and writing labs that were open on weekends.

After HACC, Lee transferred to Penn State Harrisburg where he received bachelor's degrees in marketing and information systems, master's degrees in business administration and information systems and later earned a doctorate in information sciences and technology from Penn State University. He is currently an assistant professor of information systems at Penn State Harrisburg.

HACC faculty and staff set Lee on his path to success. He credits guidance counselor Kathy Ciocci for helping him adjust to college that first semester and Dr. James Boswell, his English professor, for seeing Lee's potential and guiding his personal development. Lee is also grateful for the donors who established the Simon and Eva Brenner Student Travel and Enrichment Award that enabled him to soar a little higher.

Highmark, HACC ‘Step It Up’ to help young people

When Highmark Inc. mailed its Highmark Local Workforce Initiative request for proposals in fall 2011, the College’s workforce division staff immediately saw that it would be an excellent fit for HACC. The initiative was aimed at protecting the most vulnerable members of our community by promoting career development and job training for youth and young adults in central Pennsylvania.

Using its own strengths and relying on community partners, HACC staff developed a six-step program to address barriers that kept young people in the southern-tier counties of Adams, York and Franklin from getting an education. Staff members evaluated steps to introduce English as a second language; computer and basic employability skills; career awareness; and steps to complete a GED.

The result was the “Step It Up” program, a multi-faceted approach that customizes services to meet individual needs. Highmark awarded the program a $100,000 grant — $56,000 from the Highmark Local Workforce Initiative Fund of The Foundation for Enhancing Communities and $44,000 from the Highmark Local Workforce Initiative Fund of the Lehigh Valley Community Foundation. In July 2012, the HACC Foundation received $10,000 for the “Step It Up” program through the generosity of the Helen D. Groome Beatty Trust, a BNY Mellon Mid-Atlantic Charitable Trust.

Carlisle foundation takes burden off allied health students

Amber Adair of Landisburg in Perry County is a typical HACC student. A practical nursing student on the Harrisburg Campus, she juggles work and school to make ends meet. “As a nursing student, I am required to work full time to keep up with my financial obligations,” she said. “This puts a lot of stress on me and my husband.”

Jimmy Jordan, 22, of York, studies computer numerical control (CNC) machining in the “Step It Up” program. “This is another skill to add to my portfolio,” Jordan said. “It can take me into other avenues, such as business ownership.”

To take some of the burden off students like Adair, the Carlisle Area Health and Wellness Foundation (CAHWF) has provided almost $680,000 in scholarship support since 2004. The foundation’s award of $87,000 in 2011-12 is helping students in allied health fields to spend a little more time on their studies. Adair said, “I will put my scholarship to good use by finishing my education and helping those who need me when they are faced with a medical condition.”

Golf sponsor shows commitment to scholarship tournament

Every September, avid area golfers sling their clubs into the car and head to the Frank J. Dixon Tournament for Scholarships. Over the 17-year history of the event, loyal friends of HACC have helped the HACC Foundation to raise almost $1.4 million in scholarship support through sponsorship of the tournament. At the top of the list in total giving is the TE (formerly Tyco) Foundation.

The TE Foundation has donated more than $200,000 in scholarship support through sponsorship of the golf tournament since 2001. The foundation’s 2011-12 donation of $20,000 for the 2012 event is yet another demonstration of the value the TE Foundation sees in HACC.

“The TE Foundation focuses on education and on organizations that have a significant community impact. HACC does just that by preparing students to get jobs — including many who don’t have the resources to go to college without scholarships,” said Greg King, sales director at TE Connectivity Ltd. and a member of the HACC Foundation Board of Directors. “I’m proud to volunteer my time at HACC and proud to be part of a company that values education.”

Anne M. Nebinger Memorial Funds Honor a Dream

Anne M. Nebinger

Anne Nebinger never accepted limitations. Raising five children as a single mother during the 1960s was certainly a challenge, yet she met the challenge with confidence and a positive attitude. She worked tirelessly to provide a nurturing childhood and loving home for her children.

Despite not graduating from high school herself, Nebinger insisted that all her children achieve the dream of post-secondary education. She took much pride in her family's various accomplishments. Three children graduated from college. Two others served their country with pride in the U.S. Armed Forces and both received career training while enlisted.

Once her dream of seeing her children become successful adults was realized, Nebinger turned to another dream. She wanted to earn her own college degree. After working as a bookkeeper for a number of years, she wanted to graduate from college and become an accountant. Sadly, Nebinger's life ended prior to realizing this dream.

Her daughter, Rosemary Baylor, established the Anne M. Nebinger Memorial award and endowment funds to honor her mother and to promote and encourage others in the pursuit of their dreams. The scholarship funds will support students at HACC's Lebanon Campus who are majoring in business, with preference given to those who follow Nebinger's dream into the field of accounting. The family hopes that Nebinger's devotion and spirit will continue as hard-working moms and others pursue a better life through higher education.

Jennifer Weaver Scholarship Award Fund Creates a Legacy

Jennifer Weaver

Jennifer Weaver, former vice president of HACC's Gettysburg Campus, was passionate about higher education. She served more than 20 years at the helm of the Gettysburg Campus, building a strong and vibrant student body. In particular, she was instrumental in the growth of Latino and first-generation college students, groups that she was committed to supporting through a variety of campus resources.

In summer 2011, Weaver made a personal decision to financially support these students. She established The Jennifer Weaver Scholarship Award Fund and quietly used her own finances to begin building the fund. She also included the scholarship award fund as part of her estate planning to ensure its viability for years to come.

Weaver retired from the Gettysburg Campus in March 2012. Many from the community recognized her dedication through gifts to The Jennifer Weaver Scholarship Award Fund. Strikingly, the staff and faculty of the Gettysburg Campus showed overwhelming support of Weaver's dedication through the 2012 HACC Foundation employee appeal. Altogether, more than $10,000 was raised for the fund, a tremendous effort to recognize the work of a great educational leader.

The HACC community was saddened by the passing of Jennifer Weaver on July 28, 2012. She leaves behind a culture of caring and overwhelming support for students at HACC's Gettysburg Campus. Her legacy will live on in The Jennifer Weaver Scholarship Award Fund.

Here are comments from Gettysburg Campus employees on why donating to this fund was so important:

"Jennifer Weaver was one of my greatest role models as a student and years later as a HACC employee. Not only did she push me to do things I never would have done on my own, but she was also the most caring woman I have ever met. You could feel the strength that radiated from her. Every time I was around her, I felt like I could accomplish and overcome anything. Donating to her scholarship fund is the least I could do to keep her legacy alive — cheering on our students, giving them strength and watching them achieve their dreams."

Kristin G. Carr, student services specialist

"My husband, Bob, and I donated to Jennifer's scholarship fund because we admire the legacy she created at HACC's Gettysburg Campus, and we wanted to support that legacy. Jennifer's motives were caring and selfless. She quietly created an avenue for others' growth and success. That is something to be supported."

Generosity of UGI Makes a Difference

Michael Fessler

HACC is fortunate to have partners in the community that not only give of their time and talents, but also provide in-kind support to meet the needs of the College. An outstanding example of this commitment is the ongoing support from UGI.

More than 20 years ago, when the Senator John J. Shumaker Public Safety Center (PSC) was established as an extension of HACC's Harrisburg Campus, UGI installed the original gas lines to the facility.

Over the years, the company has supported HACC students financially in many ways, from contributing to the annual Frank J. Dixon Tournament for Scholarships to financially supporting capital projects, such as the Midtown 2 facility and the PSC renovation and expansion project.

While HACC is grateful for the generosity of all individuals, businesses and organizations that have contributed to the PSC campaign, UGI stands out because it took its commitment a step further by upgrading and installing new gas lines on the grounds as an in-kind donation.

UGI Regional Director Michael Fessler said, "We are fortunate to have HACC located at several locations throughout UGI's service area. HACC is an important resource for economic development in both educating tomorrow's workforce and re-training area residents with the skill sets needed for today's jobs."

Our thanks go to UGI for going beyond expectations. Together, with our partners, we are making a difference in our communities!

Public Safety Center Undergoes Expansion

In 2011-12, the HACC Foundation authorized the purchase of a 79-foot aerial ladder truck with pump for the Senator John J. Shumaker Public Safety Center (PSC). Delivered in August 2012, the KME-Kovatch fire truck replaces two of the four fire trucks that the PSC has used to train cadets and volunteer firefighters from across the Commonwealth.

PSC staff and friends naturally were excited to learn about the Foundation's approval for the first new piece of fire apparatus in the PSC's more than 20-year history. This past year, however, was a successful one for the PSC for more than one reason alone. Preparations for the final phases of the expansion were ongoing, and support from community leaders and private foundations continued, too. The campaign total now stands at $5.4 million. HACC is indebted to all those who have so generously contributed to this effort.

Among the milestones reached this past year were the following:

Dauphin County shows support for region's first responders

Dauphin County Commissioners George Hartwick III, Jeff Haste and Mike Pries once again proved they are committed to our region's first responders. They approved HACC's $250,000 application to the Dauphin County Gaming Advisory Board for the benefit of the PSC campaign, Helping Tomorrow's First Responders, Today. On April 12, 2012, a check was presented to HACC President John J. "Ski" Sygielski, Ed.D., during a ceremony that offered community leaders a firsthand look inside the new law enforcement complex. Total Dauphin County support for the project now stands at $750,000.

NRA Foundation invests in law enforcement complex

To further support the PSC, specifically the construction of a new 25-lane indoor firing range at the Senator Jeffrey E. Piccola Law Enforcement Complex, The NRA Foundation from both the eastern and the western regions of Pennsylvania contributed $10,000. This was the first time The NRA Foundation has invested in the PSC and its efforts to train our region's law enforcement officials. The College is looking forward to a continued relationship with the foundation for years to come.

Exelon extends partnership with major gift to PSC

A longtime partner in training, Exelon Generation Co. LLC, stepped forward this year to invest $10,000 in the new trench rescue and confined space training area. Exelon and the PSC have enjoyed a long and vibrant partnership. The training provided by PSC to Exelon ensures the safety and security of its employees each year. Exelon officials presented a check to the HACC Foundation at the PSC in June 2012.

EITC-Funded Scholarships Help High School Students Earn College Credits

Brad A. Garfinkel, left, vice president, retail market manager, Metro Bank, and a HACC alumnus, is shown with Ross Berger, HACC's director of secondary partnerships, and Sheila Fleischer, community development officer, HACC's Harrisburg Campus. Metro Bank contributed $25,000 in 2011-12 to help high school students to earn college credits at HACC through the state's Educational Improvement Tax Credit (EITC) program.

More than 80 high school students in more than 40 school districts throughout central Pennsylvania earned college credits while still in high school in 2011-12, thanks to the EITC program. EITC awards tax credits to approved businesses that make contributions to scholarship organizations or educational improvement organizations. HACC's College in the High School and dual enrollment programs are eligible for EITC funds.

EITC benefits businesses that have been approved to receive tax credit equal to 75 percent of contributions up to $200,000 per taxable year. The tax credit may be increased to 90 percent of the contribution if the business agrees to provide the same amount of contribution to an organization for two consecutive years.

HACC's EITC programs enable qualified high school students to enroll in college-level courses at their high school, technical school or a HACC campus during the regular school day. These courses include everything from basic, entry-level college math to culinary skills and the trades. The courses are taught by HACC faculty or a high school teacher who qualifies as a HACC adjunct faculty member.

For the coming year, the programs include students enrolled in the Early College Academy at the Harrisburg and Gettysburg campuses, HACCVantage at the Lancaster Campus and HACC Academy at the York Campus. Specifically, the EITC scholarships provide financial assistance for tuition, fees, textbooks and other educational supplies required by students to take HACC courses.

In 2011-12, the HACC Foundation awarded scholarships totaling $10,352. Since 2008, 12 local businesses and foundations have contributed nearly $100,000 to the HACC Foundation's EITC fund.

HACC Foundation Supports Cardiac Sonography Program

HACC's cardiac sonography program will be able to provide a superior learning experience for students, thanks to the HACC Foundation.

In 2011-12, the HACC Foundation funded the purchase of digital sonography equipment for the cardiac sonography program. Offered at the Lancaster Campus, the 71-credit program has been growing — students travel a distance to obtain the classes and hands-on skills needed for clinical placement.

The recently purchased digital equipment enables students to have additional hands-on experience in scanning while on campus. In addition, the purchase of this more efficient equipment helps to reduce the adjunct faculty cost each semester.

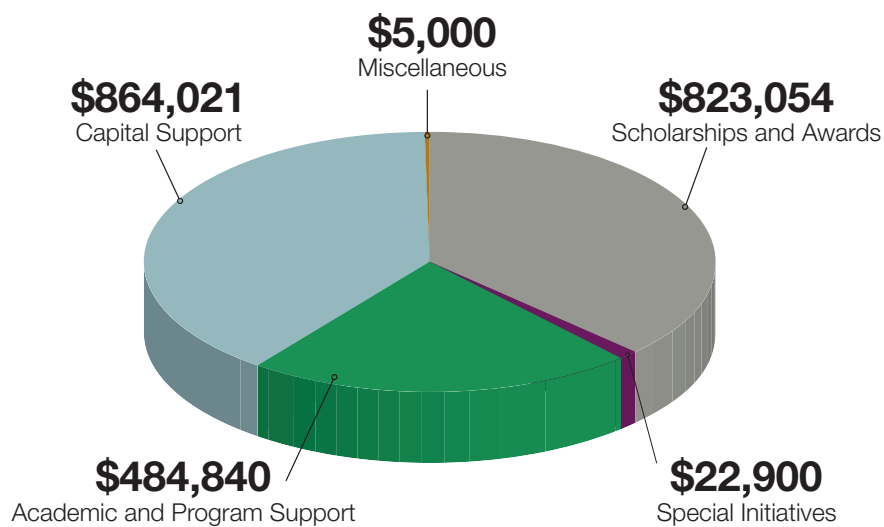

Because the new technology is digital, it meets the requirements for cardiac sonography. Several of the program's older machines use VHS technology at a time when VHS is quickly coming to an end. With the new purchase, students can operate the same technology that is currently used in hospitals and physician practices. This will facilitate an enhanced learning experience and provide the students with the skills necessary to provide high-quality patient care.

Other features of the equipment include the ability to obtain multiple images on a patient, to troubleshoot equipment issues and to perform a patient report suitable for presenting to a physician for diagnosis.

HACC faculty chose to purchase refurbished, rather than new, equipment. The rationale for obtaining a refurbished machine is that students in general are not familiar with the technology. It is not uncommon for students to accidentally drop a piece of equipment during use. HACC maintains a low-level service contract that can handle these incidents, but a new cardiac sonography machine would have been too expensive and financially risky for novice students.
