

Emina Imamovic

[EMINA IMAMOVIC, a HACC student, sits in a classroom, wearing a tan sweater, speaking to an interviewer off camera.]

EMINA IMAMOVIC:

HACC has prepared me for a four-year institution. It was able to provide an insight on what college was actually going to be like for going into the future, because no high school student really knows what it's going to be like. You know, going in there, you're kind of moving away from home or if you're going to be close to home. So HACC really prepares you for that next step with going into what kind of schoolwork you're going to be dealing with what kind of professors you might be dealing with throughout your school years. You're definitely going to be able to get that next step for your goals, for going into that four-year. So I started out basically in the general classes at HACC, but then going through like the more classes I've been taking, I've been finding my love for marketing. And I really hope that other people that come to HACC can find their niche like I did too.